

IF IT MIGHT BE AN EMERGENCY, DON'T WAIT.

When your child needs medical attention, please seek care right away – it could save their life. Connecticut Children's Emergency Department is open and safe.

EXAMPLES OF WHEN TO BRING YOUR CHILD TO THE EMERGENCY DEPARTMENT

- Unconscious or not responsive
- Severe allergic reaction
- Possible poisoning
- Trouble breathing
- Seizure
- Head injury
- Neck or spine injury
- Significant wound or bleeding
- Severe pain
- Non-emergent care for many other medical conditions – from asthma to diabetes to digestive issues – when your child can't be seen by their regular doctor

SAFE AND SOUND AT CONNECTICUT CHILDREN'S

Here are just a few of the ways our Emergency Department is keeping kids safe and sound – and giving parents peace of mind.

- Dedicated entrances and areas for non-COVID patients
- Rapid triaging to avoid the waiting room
- Daily screenings and all the right protective gear for employees
- Extra cleaning, disinfecting and sanitizing precautions
- Masks for everyone who enters
